Executive Field Summary

Unified property intelligence, estimating (Symbility / Claims Connect), and restoration job-management ERP suite (DASH, formerly Next Gear Solutions) serving carriers and high-volume restoration franchises.

Core Capabilities & Restoration Workflow Fit

Claims Connect mobile estimating, DASH enterprise job management and accounting integration, MICA water mitigation drying logs, and property-level underwriting and catastrophe risk datasets.

Corporate Ownership & M&A Verification Note

Standalone private-equity-backed operating company (rebranded from CoreLogic to Cotality in 2025; owned by Stone Point Capital and Insight Partners). Houses legacy Next Gear Solutions (DASH, MICA, Restore365) and Symbility Claims Connect.

Procurement Due-Diligence & Field Watch-Outs

Verify contract migration terms following the 2025 CoreLogic-to-Cotality rebrand, confirm whether legacy Restore365 workflows have fully migrated into DASH/Claims Connect, and audit multi-location seat pricing.

Ecosystem & Software / Distribution Integrations

Claims Connect carrier portals, QuickBooks/Sage accounting bridges, Encircle, CompanyCam, Matterport, Phoenix DryLINK, and major franchise reporting templates.

Practitioner Frequently Asked Questions

Q: What happened to CoreLogic, Next Gear Solutions, and Restore365?
CoreLogic rebranded to Cotality in 2025 after earlier acquiring Next Gear Solutions (DASH, MICA, Restore365) and Symbility; Restore365 is tracked as absorbed into the Cotality ecosystem in this census.

Q: When do restoration contractors need Cotality Symbility alongside Xactimate?
Contractors working with carriers or TPAs standardized on Claims Connect / Symbility must maintain active Symbility estimating seats and diagram templates alongside Xactimate.

Q: How is Cotality classified under Option B ownership rules?
Cotality operates as a standalone corporate parent rather than a subsidiary of another operating conglomerate, so it is published as an independent operating platform with its PE ownership documented.
